

I was swept in immediately with the song of prayer – that prayer and melody being forever etched in my mind from youth. The evening had a feeling of intimacy and “tradition” . . . tradition not only in the sense of the story being told, but that a group of people can stand in some light, in front of other people, in a small space in Brooklyn, and create a shared emotional experience.

Any corps of actors that can cause a hush to fall upon its audience, such that the angel of silence is not just flying by but is still hovering, must, as they say, be doing something right.
